30 YEARS OF STRUCTURED LITERACY

WHY WE WON'T STOP
UNTIL EVERYONE CAN READ

Literacy in the United States is in crisis. Sixty-nine percent of fourth graders aren't reading at grade level. Still, we see a bright future at IMSE, because every classroom holds the power to transform a child's life through reading.

I founded IMSE to ensure educators are prepared to successfully teach students to read. For more than 30 years, IMSE has been proud to support educators in this work. What does that mean for students? Hope.

We've now trained more than 450,000 educators. IMSE training is regularly conducted in all 50 states and across 4 countries. The progress inspires me every day, and it is producing measurable improvements for students:

WE ALL KNOW THE STATISTICS

69%

of fourth graders aren't reading at grade level.

Average Oral Reading Fluency (ORF) Scores Jump with IMSE OG+

Control Group

33.38 Point Increase

Treatment Group

42.82 Point Increase

Researchers at Kent State recently confirmed that students taught by IMSE OG+–trained teachers achieve differential growth in reading from fall to spring. In fact, the average Oral Reading Fluency (ORF) score for the treatment group in that study improved by nearly 10 points more than the control group score.

Thirty years ago, IMSE was born out of a shared desire among educators: to work toward a day when every person can read. Three decades later, that mission burns brighter than ever. Results like these remind me that we're on the right path. I hope you'll join us as we Change the Story.

Jeanne Jeup
CEO, IMSE

LITERACY OPENS EVERY DOOR.

Literacy is a human right, and IMSE is here to help. Our Structured Literacy programs empower educators to make an immediate impact because when students win, we all win. Three things set IMSE apart:

30 Years of Evidence-Based Evolution

The Bridge from Research to Implementation

A Total District Partnership

Together, these strengths make IMSE more than a program provider. We're a long-term partner in your literacy journey, committed to helping every student, every classroom, and every district succeed.

"Implementing the IMSE Orton-Gillingham Plus program has been transformative for our students. We've witnessed remarkable growth in their phonemic awareness and phonics skills, which has significantly improved their overall reading abilities."

Suraya Driscoll
Student Services Director
East Grand Forks, MN

OUR MISSION

We transform literacy research into action, empowering educators with knowledge, tools, and support to ensure every child learns to read.

THE SCIENCE BEHIND READING:

STRUCTURED LITERACY

Structured Literacy supports all students, especially those with learning differences. Approaches like Orton-Gillingham, grounded in the Science of Reading, emphasize repeated decoding and dictation practice to strengthen word recognition and spelling skills. Structured Literacy incorporates phonemic awareness, phonics, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension to build the foundation necessary for reading success through both word recognition and language comprehension.

Explicit

Each new concept is clearly explained and supports learning with strategies that engage multiple senses to enhance memory.

Systematic

Instruction follows a logical scope and sequence, progressing from simple to more complex skills.

Cumulative

New concepts build on prior knowledge with frequent review to reinforce phoneme-grapheme relationships, spelling patterns, and rule generalization.

Diagnostic/ Responsive

Ongoing assessment guides instruction by monitoring progress and informing differentiation based on student needs.

We are seeing district-level data improvements. Fewer and fewer of our students each year require a RIMP. Our dyslexia data has shown remarkable improvement and puts us on the right track to reach our goal that 95% of third graders will be reading on grade level by 2025-26.

Nichol Honaker
Curriculum Director
Fort Frye Local Schools, OH

Tiered Approach Meets Students Where They Are

Recognizing that no two students are the same, IMSE equips educators with the tools and strategies to deliver effective literacy instruction across all three tiers of MTSS.

Tier 1: Core Instruction for all students

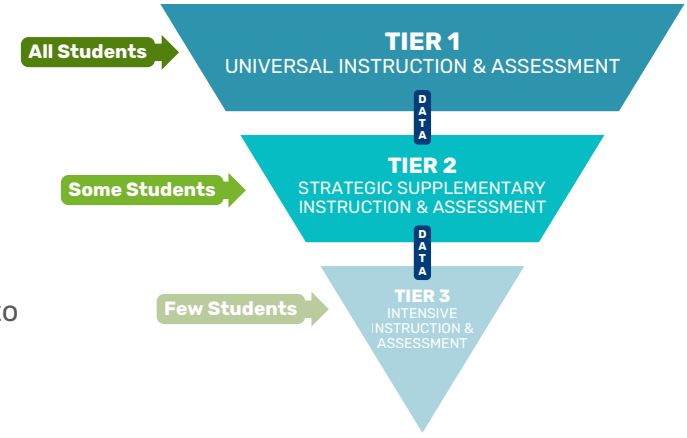

- 90 minutes of instruction per day, including 30 minutes of IMSE OG+ or Morphology+*
- Whole-class instruction or small-group instruction if additional support is needed; in the general education classroom

Tier 2: Strategic Instruction

- Minimum of 30 minutes per day at least 3 times per week in addition to core instruction
- Small-group instruction

Tier 3: Intensive Instruction

- Minimum of 45 minutes daily in addition to core instruction
- Small-group instruction provided by a specialized teacher or interventionist
